

LIVING ALONE

Before the bushfire season

-  Clean up all rubbish around the house, keep grass mown and whipper snipped, including nature strip. Move woodpile well away from house (minimum 10 metres).
-  Remove all branches overhanging the house (utilise Council's green waste service or vouchers).
-  Clean out all gutters, including sheds/garage. Check wire mesh minimum of 1.5mm aperture over vents around the house.
-  Check all smoke alarms, and replace batteries if necessary.
-  Place mops and metal buckets in an accessible location with the Emergency Kit.
-  Ensure all house entrance points are clear of all combustible items/materials for at least 10 metres.
-  Check hoses can reach around whole house, can be moved inside and connected to the washing machine taps.
-  Test pumps and hoses for correct usage.
-  Decide where I am going to obtain bushfire information from during the bushfire season and download associated apps or bookmark relevant webpages. Eg. CFA Fire Ready, emergency.vic.gov.au , preset 774AM on radio. Don't rely on one source of information and consider power failures. Battery operated or wind up radios can be a great option in addition to new technology.
-  Identify my trigger to leave eg. Total Fire Ban, SEVERE or greater Fire Danger Rating.
-  Make arrangements to go to a non-high risk area when I relocate. Eg. Family or friends
-  Pack relocation kit in a container or bag for quick transportation - photographs, medications/ prescriptions, important documents (insurance details), passports, cameras, jewellery, backup discs, etc. (see Relocation Kit section). Keep relocation kit in an accessible spot.
-  Keep mobile phones charged throughout the bushfire season and carry at all times.
-  Identify exit routes and back up exit routes, as a fire could come from any direction and I need a plan to be prepared for all situations to avoid driving directly into the fire.
-  Identify where to shelter in the house if unable to leave and inform family, neighbours or friends.

LIVING ALONE

Before the bushfire season

-  Source enough woollen blankets to use for protection should the need arise. Consider obtaining blankets for visitors.
-  Pack an emergency kit (see emergency kit).
-  Advise neighbours, close friends and relatives of my plan and where I will go when I leave.
-  Discuss my fire plan with direct neighbours, and exchange contact information to ensure we are all able to keep in touch in an emergency.
-  Practice what I will do should leaving early be impossible or if fire threatens the house.

LIVING ALONE

On a high risk day

-  Decide whether to leave the night before or early in the morning on our trigger days. YES
-  Regularly and continuously monitor the CFA Fire Ready app, emergency.vic.gov.au and 774KHz (ABC Radio).
-  Advise neighbours, close friends and relatives of the plan to leave early and where I will go.
-  Move any outdoor furniture, flammable items, doormats and items which may be dangerous in high winds into the garage, including BBQ gas bottle.
-  Block all downpipes with gutter plugs, tennis balls or rags and fill gutters with water.
-  Turn off the Gas supply at the main.
-  Divert the home phone to a mobile and carry that mobile at all times.
-  Take the car and my Relocation Kit and head for my designated relocation place. Remain there until the danger has passed.
-  Prepare for a probable delay due to traffic congestion so as to avoid a panic.

Fire threatening house

- | | YES |
|---|--------------------------|
|  Wet down all front and back decks and keep them wet. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
|  Drench fire-facing walls, and continually monitor for spot fires. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
|  Block under exterior doorways with wet towels/blankets. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
|  Continually patrol house/ceiling to prevent and put out any internal fires. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
|  Check roof space regularly. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
|  When fire intensity becomes too great - retreat inside, move hoses into the house and connect them to the washing machine taps. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
|  Draw curtains, but maintain a view of the conditions outside. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
|  Do not retreat to a bathroom - they are generally an unsafe room as they only have one exit and windows are frosted for privacy - which does not allow me to see outside. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
|  Keep drinking plenty of water, even if not feeling thirsty. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
|  If the house catches fire, move away from the source and shut doors behind me to isolate and slow down the burning parts of the house. The last room to retreat to must be the one with two exits, the designated room (Hopefully the fire front will have passed by the time I am forced into the designated room). | <input type="checkbox"/> |
|  If the designated room is no longer safe, and if it is safe to do so, move outside to the side of the house that will offer the most protection from radiant heat and cover up with dry woollen blankets and shelter there until the fire passes. | <input type="checkbox"/> |

Fire front passed

Go around the house checking for embers and spot fires, and dousing these with the hose, cotton mops and metal buckets etc.

YES

Keep drinking plenty of water, even if not feeling thirsty.

When all is OK, advise relatives or friends.

Check status of neighbours and street, including power lines, etc and report any problems via mobile phone (if available) to the CFA or Police.

Continue to monitor for spot fires.
